

Ministry Update: Colin & Tina Ovenell

After three months in Benin, we have returned home to Quincy and are settling back into a familiar rhythm—though it still takes a moment some nights to remember where we are. Our time in Benin was full, dividing days between Parakou and our newly built home to the north. While there, we were able to teach and coordinate classes for the Bible Institute, host a conference for our elementary school staff, and gather pastors and church leaders from across the country for our annual national meeting. It was a meaningful season of ministry and connection, even amid the challenges of travel and logistics.

This year's conference was marked by heavier news, as a village church in Kofouno was attacked, displacing several families who are now being cared for by other believers in nearby communities. Relief funds were sent to help meet immediate needs, and we continue to pray for their safety and stability. As we resume furlough ministry in the U.S.—reconnecting with supporting churches, participating in summer ministries, and working on a local construction project—we also ask for prayer for Benin. In particular, please pray for peaceful elections, for protection and wisdom amid ongoing unrest in the north, and that the gospel would continue to spread unhindered. We are grateful for your faithful support and look forward to connecting with many of you in the months ahead.
